ANOTHER BALL GAME LOST

An Error by Buckley and Timely Hitting by Boston Defeat the Hoosiers.

The Latter Had a Fine Opportunity Early in the Game, but Failed to Improve It-The Other League and Association Games.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. Boston, Aug. 9.—The Hoosiers were defeated to day by an excusable error by Buckley, followed by timely hitting by the Bostons. The visitors had a splendid opportunity to win in the second inning, Conway's wildness filling the bases, but after that he steadied down and they were retired with no runs. A remarkable thing in the game was the number of double plays, of which the Indianapolis team made three and the Bostons four, all of them participated in by the new second-baseman, Higgins. In the first inning Seery's fly was dropped by Brown, but the runner was forced out at second by what seemed a fly by Buckley, which proved to be a hit. Buckley was doubled by Hines. Glasscock opened the second with two bases on a wild throw by Nash, but was doubled on a fly to Higgins. A hit by McGeachy and two bases on balls filled the bases. Healy hit a grounder toward third which struck Myers as he ran by. and the side was out. In the third a double and a single put Seery on third and Buckley on first, with no one out. Seery scored on Hines's grounder to Higgins, who touched Buckley and retired Hines. Glasscock flied to Johnston. After that McGeachy, on five balls, and Healy and Glasscock on hits, were the only men to reach first, and they got no further. The Bostons scored in the second inning on singles by Hornung and Wise, a strike and a bad throw by Bassett to the plate. In the sixth, Buckley juggled and then dropped Johnston's hot line fly; the latter had stopped running, but started again and reached second, as Buckley threw wide of the base to catch him at first. A single by Kelley brought Johnston home, and "the only" scored on Nash's Gouble to right. The last run for the home team was earned on Conway's single and Johnson's double in the sev-

> Other League Games. NEW YORK, 5; PITTSBURG, 3.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9 .- The New Yorks pulled the game out of the fire to-day by batting Galvin hard in the ninth inning, with two men out, while the spectators became frantic with delight and gave three mighty cheers for the Giants. Pittsburg played a fine game, Kuehne excelling; the Giants outplayed them, but were unfortumate in having men put out at the home plate. Welch was unsteady, but outside of Whitney's wild throw, which was responsible for one of Pittsburg's runs, his field support was perfect.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9 .- The Philadelphias should have won to-day's game, hands down, but they got badly rattled in the seventh and permitted Detroit to roll up four unearned runs and tie the score. The winning run was made in the tenth, and Andrews reached first on a poor throw by Sutcliffe, went to second on Ganzel's fumble of Delehanty's grounder, and to third on a wild pitch. Farrar hit to White, who stupidly threw to Brouthers, and Andrews came in.

Base-Bail Notes. Boston is said to be after Stearns, of Des Moines. The Pittsburgs have evidently captured a great player in Beckley. Shomberg has not been summoned, as yet, to join the Indianapolis team.

The New Yorks are not liable to keep up their present gait. The season is not two-thirds over. It was a foolish thing in one of the Association club presidents to reflect upon Umpire Ferguson's honesty.

New Orleans has released Houck and Webber. Houck declined $175 a month, and said he couldn't live on it.

The Pittsburg team has engaged Williams, an out fielder from the Davenport, Is., club. He will replace Dairymple.

The Association clubs have returned to the 25 cent tariff. It was so decided at a meeting held in Philadelphia Tuesday. Hardy Richardson will soon rejoin the Dewould yet win the pennant. They appear to be afraid to try Beatin and Cruber. The Easterns and Grand avenues will play for the city amateur honors to-morrow afternoon at the ball park. Considerable interest is taken in this game, as the two clubs are great rivals.

This is by all odds the best season for playing ever known in the League. The clubs are so evenly matched that a tail-end team is liable at any time to win three straight games from the leaders. The Boston cinb, it is said, is about to try another new second baseman, probably Joe Quinn, of DesMoines, who came to Indianapolis with the old St. Louis League team, but was given his release. "We are still of the opinion that when Chica-go parted with Mike Kelly and John Clarkson one good base-ball club was spoiled in order to make two bad ones. Luck is a powerful factor, but it doesn't make silk purses out of sows' ears."-Chicago News. Hines and Higgins were signed by President Soden, for the Boston Ball club, yesterday,

The directors have notified O'Rourke and Kluseman that they will be released, the former on account of unsatisfactory work and habits, and the latter on account of a defect in his arm. Umpire Lynch seems fated to perish on the ball field. Yesterday another foul tio missed his chest protector and struck him on the shoulder that the game was delayed for several minutes. The crowd laughed, whereupon Kuehne very properly told them they ought to be ashamed of themselves. - Detroit Tribune. But for Baldwin's downfall Cleveland would have secured Gruber, of the Detroits, by this time. All the League clubs had waived on him when the Detroit club made up its mind that Baldwin would not do, and Gruber would. So. on Monday, the figure on Gruber was withdrawn, and Baldwin and McGuire were offered instead. Cleveland did not want either, and the entire deal is off.

Yorks, Thornless's driver, was thrown. Thornless ran around the track and finished the mile. He was making another round, when his groom on horseback caught him. Neither the horse nor driver was hurt. Thornless was allowed to start in the next heat, Vanness being substituted as driver. Again Thornless began to run, and Vanness made no effort to stop him. Through this means Kitty Curry was beat out of the heat, Spofford coming in first. The judges declared it no heat, fined Vanness $50, and suspended him for the rest of the meeting.

Arrested for an Old Crime.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 9 .- United States Deputy Marshals Franks and Cannon have made an arrest of two accused murderers who, twenty-nine years ago, shot a man in cold blood upon the streets here. The principal in the murder is Howard O. Spencer, and his accomplice is George Stringham. Their victim was Sergeant Pike, of the United States army. The murder was committed in 1859, when Albert Sidney Johnston's regiment was in Utah, at Camp Floyd. Howard O. Spencer, then a daring and quarrelsome young man, went down to Camp Floyd and got into a row with the soldiers. Sergeant Pike gave him a thrashing. Some time later Spencer saw Pike coming from the hotel, and shot him in the back, killing him instantly. He was never even indicted, and has since held a Mormon bishopric in the southern part of the Territory, where for many succeeding years he lived. On July 4 Wardon Pratt saw the man in Liberty Park, in this city, in the employ of the municipality, and recognized him. He kept a watch on him every day until the necessary papers to make an arrest were procured. The alleged abettor in the crime, George Stringham, has also been arrested.

Big Mail Robbery in Missouri.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 9 .- It has been learned here that a bold mail robbery was committed on the Missouri Pacific road, between this city and St. Louis, Aug. 4, in Which over $17,000 was stolen, of which $5,000 was from the State treasury. The discovery of the crime was accidental. Two farmers near Washington, Mo., were approaching a suspicious-looking man on the highway, when he became frightened, and in attempting to flee dropped a large package. The farmers secured it and at once discovered that it was plunder from a mail robbery. They turned it over to the postmaster, who notified the postal authorities, and a secret-service agent from St. Louis is now endeavoring to trace the robbers.

The Conway Murder Trial Ends in a Ten-Year Sentence-Fatally Eurt at a Crossing-Something for Which a Name Is Wanted.

INDIANA.

The Conway Murder Trial-The Evi ence Closed and a Verdict Reached. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

MUNCIE, Aug. 9 .- The State continued its evidence, re-calling George Melrose, who was upon the stand in the morning. He testified further, that in his controversy with George Adams he had his knife in his hand before Adams had picked up the rail with which to strike him, but he did not strike Adams with his knife. Upon cross examination he testified that he was arrested on Sunday, May 20, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at Elwood. He gave his knife to his father before being taken to Anderson; has not seen it since; did not know that it was hid, and had not authorized his father to hide it.

The next witness called was A. J. Lawson. He testified that Charles Conway had come to his house at about dusk on Saturday evening, the 19th of May. He told Lawson that he was going away that night, and wanted to stay at his house until the night train went through. Conway went to bed, and between 2 and I o'clock in the morning got up and took the train on the Panhandle road, going towards New Castle. Witness did not see Elmer Conway come to his house with Charles Conway. He is an uncle of Elmer Conway's. Upon cross-examination witness said that Charles Conway told him he was going home that night. Adam Melrose, the father of George Melrose, was next called, but the court ruled out the evidence sought to be introduced. The State then rested its case. After the opening statement of the defendant's case had been made to the jury by James Brown, the defendant's evidence was introduced. Mrs. Lizzie Conway, the stepmother of the defendant, William Conway, his father, and James Conway, his brother, testified that the defendant had been subject, more or less, to epileptic fits for the past eight years, or since he was fourteen years of age.

Dr. G. W. H. Kemper testified, in answer to hypothetical questions put, in regard to the probable effect of such a wound upon Adams, and as to the cause of his death. He also testified with regard to the effect of epilepsy upon the mental and physical organizations of a

Charles Conway, the defendant, was then placed upon the stand. He testified that he, in company with Elmer Conway, went to Elwood on the 19th of May, on a buckboard; stayed there until about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and then started home; on the way they caught up with a big wagon in which were four persons; the witness, Elmer Conway and George Melrose, were on the buckboard when they started from town; Elmer afterwards went forward and rode in big wagon; when they got about six miles out of town Adams called to Ogle to come out and get some cabbage plants which he (Adams) had brought from town for him; Ogle came out to the big wagon and got his cabbage plants and had started back in the direction from whence he had come; the witness and Melrose just then drove up; the big wagon was driving on; Melrose commenced cursing and swearing; witness said to him: "George, keep still; don't raise no fuss; I would rather not ing to whale him; witness drove up about five rods, and Melrose jerked out his knife and jumped out of the buckboard and ran back towards Ogle, and swore that he would cut him into pieces; witness stayed in the buckboard; Adams raised up in the big wagon, right ahead; Ogle was just standing and was not making any motions; Adams called three times for Ogle to come back, which Ogle did. and Melrose met him and commenced striking at Ogle, but Ogle being out of the way did not get hit; Adams got out of the wagon and ran back towards them; Elmer Conway also got out of the wagon and ran back, past the buckboard on which witness was sitting; Adams grabbed a piece of fence-rail and ran around behind Ogle and came up facing Meirose, and commenced striking him; witness saw him drawing back to strike, and then jumped out of the buckboard and ran back; just as Adams was drawing back to strike Meirose with the rail again, the witness hit Adams on the left breast; Adams then "took" toward the witness, who ran back up the road and jerked out his revolver, and as he was taking it out of his pocket Adams knocked him down by striking him on the back of the neck, a little to one side, and a second time on the forehead. Elmer Conway helped him up and told him to put his revolver away, which he did. Mr. Adams was being led up to Rybolt's house, and the witness got the horse and buckboard and took it up to where they had taken Mr. Adams. The witness stood around there in the road about a minute, and then walked on north towards his uncle's. Mr. McGorman, or Gorman, who worked for his uncle, was going to Windfall that evening, and after witness had eaten supper at his uncle's he asked this man if he could ride over to Windfall with him. He had intended to go home that day, and had packed his valise with that intention, but upon starting to Elwood that morning bad forgotten it, and had been compelled to return to his uncle's, instead of taking the train for home, at Elwood. Gain ing the consent of Gorman to ride over to Wind fall, he did so, intending to take the train there for home. Elmer Conway, his cousin, seeing a chance to ride, went along with him. The witness went to the house of Jack Lawson and stayed until the train went through, between 2 and 3 o'clock the next morning. He strived at home about 7 o'clock that morning. During the difficulty between Adams and Melrose, Melrose struck at Adams threel times with his knife; Adams and Melrose were two and half or three feet apart; did not see Melrose strike Adams, but saw him strike at him. State having no rebuttal testimony to offer. and the defendant having rested, the evidence was closed. The case was then argued, and given to the jury, which at 10:30 to-night returned a verdict of guilty, and fixed the penalty at ten years in the penitentiary. The prisoner was given over to the sheriff.

Burglary at Huntington. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. HUNTINGTON, Aug. 9 .- The residence of exconneilman Jacob Speaker, a leading business man of this city, was entered by a burglar last night and his pantaloons abstracted from his sleeping apartment, the pockets of which contained over $100. Mr. Speaker was awakened by the noise of two silver dollars falling upon the floor from the pants pockets, but when he attempted to arise was confronted by the burglar with a revolver, who compelled him to remain quiet. Although Mr. Speaker got a full view of the burglar's face, be failed to recognize him, and he is probably not a resident of the city. Several burglaries and attempted burglaries have occurred here in the past three months, and citizens are becoming very uneasy.

The Reunion at Russellville.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal RUSSELLVILLE, Aug. 9 .- The old settlers' and old soldiers' reunion here to-day was a grand success in every particular. The day was perfect as a May day. About 6,000 people spent the time very enjoyably. Rev. O. P. Badger and Hon. J. F. Harney addressed the people in the forenoon, making appropriate and well-received speeches. After dinner the crowd had swelled to an immense concourse and listened with good attention to the speech that private Chase knows so well how to make. He made many friends. Within the past week thieves have been rather numerous at Crawfordsville and vicinity. On Tuesday night an effort was made to get into the office of A. Thompson, treasurer of Wabash College, but the thief was not able to open the door, though the lock was so injured that the door had to be taken off the hinges. At another place $80 was secured, and at several other houses attempts were made to get in.

THE STATE CANVASS ALL RIGHT.

Both the Candidates and the Selections of the Republican Convention Heartily Indorsed.

The ticket is a strong one, made up of men of experience who have won the confidence of the Indiana people. The platform is built up symmetrically on solid foundations, speaking definitely and clearly on protection and other leading issues .- Chicago Inter Ocean.

General Hovey is one of the grandest of all Indiana's grand Republicans, and a candidate of undoubted strength. In nominating him the Republicans of Indiana have done so well that we do not see how they could have done better. His candidacy will give strength to the whole ticket, and assures a handsome Republican victory in Indiana in November. - Cleveland

Well, have you read the State platform of the Indiana Republicans! There are some good things in it. * * The platform rebukes the Indiana Democrats for election frauds and gerrymandering. It has a strong labor plank. It returns thanks to the Chicago convention for choosing Indiana's candidate to head the national ticket. It indorses the Chicago platform. Very good, so far. - Chicago News (Cleveland.) General Hovey, now Congressman for the First district of the State, is a strong candidate. His military services are distinguished, and with Private Chase for Lieutenant-governor, the ticket should command the full soldier vote. * * The declarations of the platform are particularly bold and unequivocal. That touching labor is all that could be desired by the most arbitrary advocate of the rights of the workingman, and one that no man who believes in justtice between employer, employe and the State can object to. The declaration for local option is especially applicable to the issue in Indiana, and is well fortified by the demand that there shall be no interference by the saloon in politics. The demand is justified by the experience of the party in that State two years ago, when Sim Coy, now in the penitentiary for election frauds, turned the whole power and influence of the saloon and whisky ring of the State in favor of Democracy. The other declarations of the platform favor reforms equally radical and necessary. By these things, surely, the party should conquer.—Cincinnati Commercial Ga-

In nominating Gen. Alvin P. Hovey for Governor the Indiana Republicans prove to their corethren throughout the country that they are fully conscions of the importance of that State in the political contest this year. * * While the selection of Gen. Harrison as standardbearer in the national canvass gave the Republicans a notable advantage in that Commonwealth, the placing of Gen. Hovey at the head of the State ticket makes this advantage still more conspicuous. * * * For more than a quarter of a century past Alvin P. Hovey has been one of the most distinguished citizens of the Hoosier State. As a line officer in the war against Mexico, he was one of the bravest and most dashing of the Indiana contingent. These attributes were displayed in more exalted station and in a larger field in the struggle of 1861 Neither Fremont nor Hunter, naither Grant nor Sherman, in whose commands he successively served, had a more resolute or efficient subordinate than Maj.-Gen. Hovey. The qualities of patriotism, earnestness and rigid adherence to duty which distinguished him as a soldier have animated him in every civic position which he has held. Whether on the bench, as have reflected bonor upon himself and credit | Chicago, and takes up local issues in a statesupon his State. His name has often been mentioned in connection with exalted political posi tions in the past few years. For months before the national convention met this year he was conspicuously spoken of as a possible vice-presidential nominee in case the head of the ticket were taken from some other section of the country. The selection of Gen. Hovey for Governor demonstrates that the Indiana Republicans have determined to wage an aggressive and earnest canvass from this time onward until the close of the polls on election day. -St. Louis Globe-

The Republicans of Indiana adopted a long plafform. * * Compared with the Democratic platform, it is infinitely the stronger. Compared with the Democratic party, the Republicans offer Indiana this surety: That if put into control they will restore a fair ballot; will end the infamous prostitution of the State's benevolent institutions, and by honest civilservice reform take them forever out of politics, and will pass a law permitting local self-government on the liquor question. These are things of greater importance to Indiana at this time than any other, and none of these things does the Democratic platform promise, and none of them will that party do. " The Republicans nominated their strongest man for Governor. Last week we believed and said that Porter was the strongest man for the place. Events since then wrought a change, and, when the convention assembled, Porter was not the strongest man it could have nominated. It had the acumen to see this, and it then did take its strongest man. It is rare that Indiana has ever been presented with a candidate for Governor whose record on all sides was more brilliant, honorable to its maker, creditable to the State than of Gen. Alvin P. Hovey's. a young man he was a member of the convention that made the Constitution under which the State is to-day administered. He has served with credit as a judge of two different courts, one the Supreme Court of the State. He has a fine reputation as an able lawyer. He has been the United States district attorney for the State. He has been member of Congress, a foreign minister, and as a soldier he has a glorious war record. Surely, if ever a man has been tested on all sides for capacity for public affairs, Hovey has been. Added to this, he is a man of attractive personal qualities, and so we repeat, the Republicans have nominated their strongest man. The nominee for Lieutenant-governor, also a soldier, has elements of strength which the convention recognized by his unanimous romination. The renomination of the old ticket for State officers was a foregone conclusion. In the person of Mr. Griffiths a capable and exergetic young man was chosen for Supreme Crurt Reporter. All in all, the ticket probaby is as strong as it could have been made. - Indianapolis

Comments of the State Press Every man on the ticket is "all right" and it has elements of strength that will be felt and heard from now until the 6th of November. The result of the contest for Governor is a happy solution of what seemed at one time a problem that could not be solved to the satisfaction of all the convention .- Frankfort Ban-

The choice of a candidate for Governor promised to be a difficult one, but an easy and happy way out of it was found in the nomination of Gen. Alvin P. Hovey, one of the brightest names in Indiana's long list of soldiers. He has had a long and distinguished public career, in the army, as Supreme Judge of the State, as minister to Peru, and at present in Congress. An cord, he deserves and will command the support of all Indiana Republicans. - Jushville Re-

The ticket is one that can be printed to with pride by every lover of good government and good men. Gen. Alvin P. Hovey, who was chosen unanimously to lead the fores is equal in every part to the emergency. He aids on the ticket will not flinch in any duty, and will bear the brunt of battle with him to the end, adding their force to his, ending in a ful and sweeping victory. The platform upon which they stand | vitalizing and enriching the blood, and at the is in line with the national issues presented at same time it gives strength to the whole wellmanlike and efficient manner, giving to every interest due and careful attention. And what is best, every word is meant just as written .- Evansville Journal.

The Indianapolis convention nominated a ticket that will be eminently satisfactory to the whole people of the State. While the people demanded Porter for the first place, yet were quite willing that the convention should exercise its own best judgment in its selections. The people felt that from the number of good and earnest men seeking the place a selection could be made that would be perfectly satisfactory to the masses. General Hovey is now a member of Congress from the First district, and he is regarded there as the only man that can carry the district for the Republicans. He is popular at home, was a soldier of the truest type, and is respected for his solid and unswerving character. The whole ticket is a good one, and it is bound to win this fall .- Vincennes

Commercial. The work done at Indianapolis yesterday is sure to be hailed with great joy by the Republican party in the State. The platform and the candidates fully meet the wishes of the great majority of the party. Considering the fact that there had been some confusion owing to the extreme zeal of the party to do the best thing possible in the selection of a candidate for Governor, the result is the happiest possible one. General Hovey is the ideal Republican candidate because he is a soldier from among the people and is a statesman. The platform is plainly drawn. It leaves nothing in doubt and can be courageously advocated by all true Republicans. Indiana Republicans are now fully equipped for the contest. From this time on they are a persistent, intelligent and hopeful army, fighting for a good cause under unexcelled leaders. - Terre Haute Express.

A PHILOSOPHIC SUFFERER.

John Swinton Dwelling in Darkness Which He Brightens by Cheerfulness.

New York Special. John Swinton, blind, bandaged and bedridden, is as active in mind as he was a few months ago, when he went about town and wrote all kinds of newspaper articles with his own hands. He lies upon a narrow cot in the "Second floor back" of a large house on East Twelfth street, where Dr. Knapp and his associates house their eye and ear patients. The good lady who comes to the door does not know of any Mr. Swinton, and asks if he is a German; but a small boy in the hall happened to hear the name dropped by a visitor and so in the absence of physicians it was possible to learn from the patient himself how he is getting along.

"The bandages were removed from my eyes to-day," said Mr. Swinton, cheerfully, "and the doctors say that the operation for cataract on the right eye was a great success. I do not dare as yet to state so of my own knowledge, for my eyes pain me, and I must lie here in darkness at least ten days longer, but I understand that the surgeons are actually enthusiastic. They told me that I suffered no pain during the operation of cutting out my crystaline lens, but there I beg to differ with them. Do not delude yourself with the idea that cocaine kills pain; it deadens it, dulls the knife, and in so much relieves you; but I insist that I suffered pain, and I am not ready yet to endure a similar operation upon my left eve. I am getting on, though, and expect soon to be out again, beating all you young fel-
